TETRAHEDRON
Conceived, designed and built and performed by Steven Widerman

Program Note
Following the precedent set by Master Puppeteer, Bil Baird (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bil_Baird), who created abstract puppets suggested by the geometric constructions of the brilliant inventor and visionary, Buckminster Fuller (https://synchronofile.com/the-puppets-of-buckminsterfuller/), this puppet’s design is based on Fuller’s “almighty tetrahedron.” In this touching performance, this building-block of the universe depicts the achievement of consciousness by inanimate matter, choreographed to GARDEN SCENEFROM MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING, Suite for violin and piano by noted film composer, Erich Korngold. It also acknowledges the writings of Douglas Hofstadter, author of GÖDEL, ESCHER, BACH, (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/G%3CB%6del,_Escher,_Bach) in which he expounds on the “metamagical” physics that occur at the intersection of Math, Art, and Music, and ponders how it is that animate beings can evolve from inanimate matter.

Steven Widerman is a professional puppeteer involved in Puppetry for entertainment, education, advertising, film, and TV. He is Owner and Director of The Puppet Company and is a founding partner of Heart Strings Media, known for development of PuppetVid3D®. He owned and operated a critically acclaimed puppet theater at Union Square in Manhattan for ten years for which he composed music and lyrics for theatrical musicals performed by puppets and marionettes. He is an accomplished pianist with a degree in Music from the University of Pennsylvania.

THE SÉANCE PROJECT
by Ed Valentine / Cardium Mechanicum with Amanda Ladd (Madame Y), Ian Sweetman, and Jessica Simon (Attendants/Apparitions)

Program Note
It seems an especially apt time of year to think about contacting those who have gone Beyond the Veil, doesn't it? I've long been fascinated with séances, and I've also been intrigued by how much puppetry is actually present in these offerings: figures appearing out of the darkness, mysterious shapes materializing and dematerializing in the dimming light... This project is an attempt to recreate some of the intrigue of an old-school séance, using a decidedly theatrical form and language.

Amanda Ladd is a member of New Circle Repertory Theatre & Taxdeductible Theatre. Amanda’s most recent stage credits include Mrs. Tippets in CROSSING THE BAY at the Palladium Theatre, Annie Sullivan in THE MIRACLE WORKER at Southern Appalachian Rep Theatre, & Uma in MISS THULE WON’T BE COMING BACK at NCTC. Other favorite credits include NO EXIT with Fusion Theater, GREATER TUNA at Okoboji Summer Theatre, & THE HANS PROJECT with NY Theatre Ensemble. She is a proud member of Actor's Equity Association.

Puppetry Conference. She has worked internationally at Nordland Figur Teatret in Norway and her original work has appeared across the US. In New York she has performed at La MaMa, Dixon Place, St. Ann's Warehouse, Streb Lab, and Puppet Playlist, and regionally at the Chicago International Puppet Theater Festival, the Puppeteers of America National Festival, and NerdCon: Stories. Among others, she has worked as a fabricator/wrangler for The Jim Henson Company, IBEX Puppetry, Puppet Kitchen, and Lyon Puppets. She served as co-curator of Nasty, Brutish & Short Puppetry Cabaret in Chicago, on the Artistic Direction Committee for Puppet Festival (r)Evolution, and made 3 appearances in the National Puppetry Slam. hellojessicasimon.com

Ian Sweetman got his start in puppetry at Walt Disney World, where he anonymously entertained thousands with his friends Sebastian the Crab, Bear in the Big, Blue House and Simba and Zazu, among many others. Currently living far from Florida, Ian works at the Metropolitan Opera where he anonymously keeps track of materials used to make the performers’ costumes. Occasionally, Ian gets to feed his soul with some puppet work, like tonight. Ian is glad to be here playing with his friends and entertaining all of you!

SOPHIE AND THE MUMMERS (Excerpt)
Story and Masks by David Lane
Performed by Camilla Dely and Viktoria Lange

Program Note
SOPHIE AND THE MUMMERS is the story of nine year old Sophie, a fisherman’s daughter who wakes up on Christmas Eve to the sounds of rollicking song and dance. Peeking through a slit in her door, she sees that her house has been taken over by Mummers — rowdy neighbors disguised in mask and costume who have come to share in the Christmas cheer. She is befriended by one curious and quiet Mummer named Berthold who she steals away with, out into the snowy night. Together, they attend a Medieval Mummers Play, which depicts the adventures of Sir George and his mighty conquest against the nefarious Green Dragon. It’s then that we learn that Berthold has, in fact, come to visit Sophie to seek her forgiveness for his part in a long forgotten fishing accident which claimed the life of her father and brother, and left her an only child.
